

The case is everything!

You will need a suitable case for your iPad. We strongly recommend that you have a case that totally encases your iPad, protecting everything including the screen. There are several kinds available through the Apple Store in Rundle Street, other retail outlets (including BigW, Target, KMart, Myers, David Jones and JB HiFi) and online. Two examples are provided here, along with links to five manufacturers' websites where you can read more about the cases. Costs may vary depending on the style of case and where you purchase. Most styles are available for the full range of iPads.

There are many other cases available for iPads, that will provide a degree of protection. If you decide to purchase one of these, we encourage you to do some research and consider all possible variables. Most important is the protection of the device, including the screen.

Using a combination of an iPad case and bag is another way of keeping the device safe, particularly when carrying it around at school.

STM 'Blazer'
shoulder bag
Range from $36 - $60

"All inclusive" type case that encases the iPad, from $50 to $100

- Griffin website
- Kensington website
- OtterBox website
- STM website
- MAX Cases website

Apple Smart Case
Cost range is from $59 to $129

Solid Back Cover PLUS Slip Case
Approximately $50

Range of Folios
From $35 to $100

Remember ...

a case is mandatory. You are expected to keep your iPad in the case at all times.